The main advantages of the product are as follows:

- Seeds and indigenous plants can establish from within and below the mats, generating the natural range of plants;
- Mulching effect of the matting improves all-year round establishment;
- Choice between medium-term stabilization of surface root matrix or a totally biodegradable system;
- Mats can be placed manually, often concurrently with the soiling operation. They are simple to install which is valuable for complicated soil reliefs.

Erosion control mats can be used at new slope cuttings, lakesides, freshly top-soil embankments, sport fields, lining new water courses, protecting natural monuments, etc.
